

Instructions for Registration, Sprachpraxis WS 2006/07

Please note: this information is for students who have already started Sprachpraxis. Students enrolling to study English in WS 2006/07 should not register for courses.

Registration will take place from September 2nd to September 15th 2006 online at <http://groups.yahoo.com/group/sprachpraxis>.

Students who did not register for courses in SS 2006 need to join this group (even if you were a member of the group before SS 2006, if you did not register successfully in SS 2006 you must join the group again):

Join the group – NOW!

...by going to the website mentioned above, clicking on “Join this group” and following the instructions. Because I have to approve your membership, you must give me your real name (preferably in the “message to the moderator), and you should join the group well in advance of the registration period (i.e. NOW). I cannot guarantee that students who try to join the group after September 1st will have their membership approved in time to register.

Before September 1st, I will normally approve membership applications within three days. If after this time you are still not a member, please check whether you really did give me (not yahoo!) your real name, for example in the message to the moderator, and please check the email address you supplied on your application form for possible queries from me.

If you are not already a member of Yahoo, you will first have to get a Yahoo membership and profile. This is free, but it takes a few minutes, and you should read what you are filling in carefully. You do NOT have to create a yahoo email account – use the one you normally use. Yahoo will send you a confirmation email to the email address you give it which will tell you how to complete your membership. If you haven't received this after a couple of hours, find out where your mail account puts things it thinks are spam.

Detailed instructions as to how to register for specific courses can be found under “Files” on the yahoo site – but only AFTER you have joined the group!
