Please note:

- The exam consists of a grammar section and an essay writing (250 to 300 words) task.
- If you do not register for the exam on eCampus, we will not allow you to take it. We will enforce this strictly. It is your responsibility to remember to register and to check that it has worked.
- If you register for the exam and then cannot participate, you can withdraw via eCampus up until the day before the exam takes place. If your cancellation is on the day of the exam, you must inform me (Dawn Nichols) by email and contact the Prüfungsamt. You will need to submit a doctor's certificate to the Prüfungssekretariat within three days.
- All candidates may use one monolingual English dictionary if they wish. Please note that a thesaurus is not a dictionary and that electronic dictionaries are not permitted. We will not allow you to share dictionaries, and we will not provide them either.
- Any electronic devices (such as mobile phones, smartwatches, bluetooth-enabled devices, smart glasses, etc.) must be switched off completely and placed in your bag at the front of the room before the exam begins. Please note that if you are caught in possession of such a device during the exam, this will be considered cheating regardless of what you were doing with it.
- The results of the exam will be posted on eCampus. The marking process may take up to four weeks. Please do not email us to ask us when the grades will be published.
- If you have further queries, please email Dawn Nichols (nichols@uni-kassel.de)
