Art. 1 Foreword

1. The Université Savoie Mont Blanc (France) through its Institute of Management (IAE Savoie Mont Blanc), the Università degli Studi di Trento (Italy) through its Department of Economics and Management, the Universität Kassel (Germany) through its Faculty of Economics and Management and the Universidad de León (Spain) through its Faculty of Economics and Business Studies (the parties) have agreed to implement the European Master in Business Studies (EMBS), a joint programme of education for students to become European managers with a Marketing focus.
2. Detailed information about the European master in Business Studies (EMBS) is available at EMBS: Home.
3. Counting already 15 successful promotions, the EMBS has been developed to offer to European as well as non-European students a unique opportunity of learning how to do efficient business in Europe. Apart from studying fundamentals of Management and Marketing on a European scale, students will learn “on site” the multicultural differences by studying in the four countries of the consortium and by working in groups of different nationalities.
4. In September 2017 and renewed in January 2021, the EMBS has been awarded the EFMD Programme accreditation for 3 years and for 5 years respectively, a prestigious global endorsement (EFMD Accredited). The accreditation was delivered by the European Foundation for Management Development (EFMD), an organization that is acknowledged globally as an accreditation body of quality in management education. EFMD Programme Accreditation System is a prestigious international programme accreditation system which evaluates the quality of business and management programmes that have an international perspective.
5. The EMBS is a consecutive full-time Master's degree programme, i.e. a degree that is gained after completing a bachelor's programme. It is aimed to advance and deepen the knowledge and skills acquired during the bachelor's programme. The EMBS is not an MBA programme aimed at professionals or at part-time students.
6. The Université Savoie Mont Blanc through its Institute of Management (IAE Savoie Mont Blanc) oversees the coordination of the programme.

7. Every year the EMBS Admission Board admits to the EMBS a limited number of students coming from European and Non-EU countries². The EMBS may not be operational with less than 15 students with a minimum of 3 different nationalities. The target number of students should be between 20 and 40³ representing 3 or more nationalities.
8. The official length of the EMBS programme is four semesters, one in each of the participating universities. Students gain a total of 120 ECTS credits including the company project, the master thesis module (15 ECTS credits) allocated to the 3rd semester and the internship module (10 ECTS) to be done at the end of the 4th semester.
9. The EMBS starts each winter semester in September at the Università degli Studi di Trento (Italy). The 2nd semester is run at the Université Savoie Mont Blanc in Annecy (France), the 3rd semester at the Universität Kassel (Germany) and the 4th semester at the Universidad de León (Spain).
10. The official language of the EMBS programme is English both for teaching and exams.
