

Module Announcement: I23: Sustainable agricultural practices in the Mediterranean regions – Winter term 2021

Excursion March 6 – March 13, 2022;

Preparatory sessions December through February

Please, register in advance via ecampus: <https://ecampus.uni-kassel.de>

Contents:

The excursion to a Mediterranean country (depending on Covid-19 development: Tunisia, Spain or Morocco) is at the core of this module. Learners will get to know different agricultural production systems in the climatic and geographic conditions of the Mediterranean; they will understand challenges for sustainable food systems in the region, including water stress, soil management, questions of environmental governance, and food policies. The interdisciplinary study trip will allow detailed exploration of specific and context-based study sites.

Teaching methods: Lectures and discussions, presentations, literature discussions, exchange with academics and practitioners during excursion to a Mediterranean country
Certificate: Attendance of excursion and preparatory sessions, reading, participation in group work
Further information: <https://www.uni-kassel.de/go/iapug>

