Description	Nowadays the urban heritage is being greatly affected by different factors that threaten its integrity. One of these factors is the inappropriate use of new technology in heritage buildings, as does the inappropriate lighting. It is true that to keep alive a building, it is necessary to find it a useful value for the society and to assure its permanence to the delight of the present and future generations. This task must be done under certain theoretical and technical criteria to ensure the current social needs without compromising the building. Therefore, this seminar is a brief introduction to the heritage conservation and urban lighting. Where the students will study, beginning from the main pristine conservation theories to the contemporary as a basis for intervention criteria. Additionally will be studied the theoretical and technical basic concepts necessary to achieve an adequate exterior lighting for urban heritage. Objectives: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • To study the theories of urban heritage conservation. • To know and distinguish the intervention typology used for the preservation of heritage. • To comprehend the criteria used in the development of a lighting project in urban heritage. • Develop a lighting project of urban heritage in the city of Weimar. The seminar will be organized in lectures/workshops and students' presentations. The evaluation will be done by the process of learning, i.e. individual evaluation of the oral presentation, 2 tests and the final project (lighting project), as well as the student's participation during the classes and in the final meeting. It is expected that the students apply the conservation criteria to analyze their objects of study.
